The Key

Once there was a man named Liam, he went on a walk not far from his house and he walked through the town that he lived in then through the woods. After half an hour he got lost and found a salesman he offered Liam a once in a life time opportunity to have this special key he had a think and Liam said ‘I will take it’ once he did the salesman walked into the darkness and Liam fell right to the floor falling asleep the next thing he knew was that he was in his bed with the key. He immediately got up to see what was happening outside as there was lots of noise, it was the parade and he completely forgot about it. He ran down stairs and bumped into his friend Nick, luckily they both went onto the parade without anyone noticing. Suddenly the key started glowing and he got teleported to a strange world.

Liam walked and walked in this strange world that was so dark and gloomy, he then saw a figure in the distance it was his friend Nick.

Nick and Liam explored this strange dimension together, and nick was asking question how and why?? Liam told him the story of the sales man and the key. Nick couldn't believe it.

What felt like hours was only minutes, and they found out that there were houses everywhere with people inside all of the houses, but not normal people these people never showed their faces and never spoke. Nick and Liam found a house with their names on they had everything they needed to survive until they find a way out.

They then they noticed the key but it was too late the it had already disappeared into thin air there was only dust left.

A few days after Nick and Liam noticed that everyone was outside their homes for a gathering looking up at the sky, it was strange.

Liam went to ask what was this celebration for but the other people just ignored him, next Nick tried to speak and it was good news they finally answered. One of the people turned and said, you are stuck unless you find the key in this world.

The next day Nick and Liam set off to find the key, they travelled through this parallel world for days finally they found something in a empty house which was built exactly like the other houses. There it was the key just laying there on the table. Liam and Nick jumped for joy, but what they did not know was that it was a trap. After looking around and finding a sort of cage in the attic of the house, they found another key in the cage and they were still stuck. Liam and nick knew this was a fake key. Liam grabbed the fake key and tried it in the lock and pulled the lever, it slowly started pulling the cage up.

Liam reached underneath and finally got the real key, but the ground started to shake. They noticed it was an EARTHQUAKE. Nick and Liam ran as fast as they could to evacuate the place, and use the key to transport back to their house. When they got to their house the earthquake finally stopped but the only thing they did not know was that they had to be in the exact same place were Liam first appeared in this world.

They tried and tried for hours and soon they went mad, suddenly Nick saw someone watching through the window, it was the same hooded person who told them about the key in the first place. They both ran outside to speak to the hooded man, asking him what do we need to god to get back home? The only words he spoke were, the same place, the same position.

Nick and Liam ran right back to the first place they first appeared, they held the key together and as if nothing happened they were both back in the parade with 100's of people around them.

They both agreed that day not to speak of the key again, and Liam told Nick he sold the key on, or did he.....
